From the Editor

More Parts and Tips

This month, I'll touch upon a few tips that I've gleaned from different sources that aren't really the most exciting things for your Miata, but may still be useful to you and your beloved car. For starters, let's talk about the rear window. Being plastic, it scratches fairly easily, and sun exposure can kill it pretty quickly. For regular maintenance, I use MEGUIARS #17 Plastic Cleaner to remove small scratches and surface contaminants, followed by Meguiars #10 Plastic Polish to enhance the clarity of the plastic. You can get these products at TRI-CITY PAINT (look on the back page for discount info).

Once you get the plastic window clean, you want to keep it that way, so I use a window protector. It has two fabric panels that utilize the rear deck snaps and allow the plastic window to be sandwiched between them. This way you don't have to worry about scratching the window from either contact with the top or the carpeting on the rear deck. BRAIN-STORM PRODUCTS, (800) 779-3223, carries one, as does MM MARKETING, (800) 666-4282, and they can be had for about $40-$50. If you are thrifty (read: cheap), you can always use two terry cloth towels to sandwich the rear window.

But should you ever have a rear window that has been cut, torn, or just plain brown from sun exposure, there are a few alternatives to a brand new top. MOSS MOTORS, (800) 642-8295, carries a rear window replacement for both black and tan tops for $166. They also carry a glass window replacement for $375, plus they carry a full line of ROBBINS and AMCO replacement soft tops. For installation, I recommend JIM'S AUTO UPHOLSTERY, 7902 Armour St. in Kearney Mesa, (619) 268-8531. They do all of the factory top repair and replacement for JOHN HINE MAZDA, and charge about $150 for full soft top installation.

When one of the vinyl strips that holds the soft top to the frame comes unglued (on those very rare occasions when we have the top up), give either 3M Super Weatherstrip adhesive #08001, or Permatex Super Weatherstrip adhesive #82 a try so the top doesn't "balloon" while you're driving.

Are You Wired?

Now, one day you drive home after a refreshing run in your Miata, and the next day it runs like half the engine is on holiday, then a likely culprit is a bad spark plug wire. The black OEM wires that Mazda (which they must have bought by the millions) put in each new Miata will likely begin to fail around 30,000 miles, resulting in a rough running engine. Go to CUSH MAZDA in Escondido with your SAN DIEGO MIATA CLUB card in hand (15% discount) and get a set of blue NGK spark plug wires. Your Miata will love you for it.

Cracking Under the Pressure

If you get a set of aftermarket anti-roll bars (often incorrectly called sway bars), you should be on the lookout for indications that the front mounting plates are getting too much stress. It seems the front metal plates to which the bar attaches can be sheared by the extra load put on them during hard cornering. Member Brian Goodwin had this happen to his Miata. He got a set of upgraded brackets from MAZDA COMPETITION PARTS, (800) 435-2508. They fit 1990-1997 Miatas and are called "Competition Sway Bar Bracket Kit" for Miata, part #0000-04-5101-BK. They cost about $175 for the set, which is a tad expensive; but it beats paying for new body panels.

See you on the twisties...

Fitting the Sway Bar Bracket Kit

Many members have asked me to report on my broken sway bar mounts once I got the upgraded parts from MAZDA COMPETITION. Here it is...

First, a review for those not sure what this is about. I drive my 94 miata hard and have the JACKSON RACING sway bars. Deteriorating handling prompted me to do an inspection, which revealed that I had ripped the factory sheet metal sway bar mounts in half on both sides. These are the factory mounts for the sway bars which connect to the frame rails. Anyway, thanks to members of the E-mail list, I discovered that I was not the first with this problem and MAZDA COMPETITION PARTS makes an upgraded mount. I ordered the mount and just finished installing it.

The Parts

The upgraded brackets are boxed-sectioned for extra strength and painted with a black enamel. They look very nice out of the box.

The Installation

Pain in the ..... I had hoped this entire project would take an hour or so. It took four hours. The Competition Parts catalog tells you that you need to drill out spot welds to do the install. What it doesn't tell you is that the spot welds on the inside of the factory brackets face the radiator. Rather than take the radiator out I was able to torque the metal back and forth until the spot welds gave out. The parts are not compatible with the factory power steering cooling line. I used a Dremel to cut the section of line out which was in the way and rerouted the line. You need to detach the radiator fans to reach the radiator support brackets so you can get to the inside bolts for the brackets.

Strange thing is that the upgraded brackets don't fit the way you would expect from looking at them (I discovered this after installing them backwards, which killed about two hours!) The brackets have two holes on one side and three on the other. The extra hole on one side lines up perfectly with a tapped spot in the factory rail which was unused with the factory bracket. I thought: great— extra support. This, however, leads you to install the brackets backwards. If you want to use the extra mounting hole you have to tap a new hole because the hole doesn't line up with any existing hole when the bracket is properly aligned.

That's it. Car feels firmer than ever. I encourage anyone running big sway bars to inspect their mounts carefully!

Run to Laughlin

October 10–12, 1997

The run to Laughlin and back was lots of fun. It began Friday morning October 10th. I received two cancellations before I left the house. I had five Miatas the night before; now I was down to three. PHIL DAOUST had called the night before and said he was still going and couldn't wait to get on the road, and I had received a E-mail from TONYA ZALENSKI in the middle of the week saying that she and her friend Mike Bledsoe would meet us Saturday morning at 10:00 for the fun run to Oatman. A SOCALM member called to say she and her friend would meet us in Temecula off Rte. 79 South.

I arrived at our meeting place around 8:50 and began hooking up my CB, when I realized that I forgot my CB adapter. I started to polish my Miata while waiting to spot the first Miata. It seemed like hours and hours before I spotted Phil Daoust coming into the parking lot. I was never so happy to see another Miata and a fellow club member. I didn't tell Phil this, but if he was a female, I would have kissed him.

We chatted for about fifteen minutes, and decided that no one else was going to be able to make it. The weather was cool, and it looked like rain. We said, "Lets do it," and headed north up 15 to 79 south. We stopped in Temecula at a Carl's Jr. and looked for a red Miata in the parking lot. No luck. We hit the road. Our quest was to find a Radio Shack to pick up an adapter for my CB.

The trip through the Santa Rosa Mountains was fun— what a view looking down into the valley of Palm Desert and Indian Wells. It was like you were up in an airplane at 20,000 feet. Phil spotted a Radio Shack in Indio, off route 111, and I purchased the CB adapter there.

We hit the road again, talking back and forth on the CBs. The weather really got nice and warm once we hit the other side of Santa Rosa Mountains, and Phil had to strip off his Miata jacket. We decided not to make my planned pit stop, because we both had snacks with us and we didn't need gas. Our next stop was Vidal Junction, where we purchased Route 66 T-shirts and shot the bull with the owner and a customer in the store for about fifteen minutes. Then we headed north on Rte. 95 toward Needles and on to Laughlin, chatting on the CBs.

I don't remember what time we hit Laughlin, but I think it was around 4:30. We checked in and decided to meet in the lobby around 7:30 to go to dinner. We took the "River Express" Casino water taxi down to the Riverside Resort Hotel to see the Auto Museum. It was great to see all the old cars again. After a few hours we took the casino water taxi back up to Harrah's. The view from the water taxi was out of this world, with all the lights from the casinos on the Colorado River. It was almost 11:00 when we arrived back at our hotel— Phil decided to call it a night. I hit the gaming room.

Saturday morning at 9:45 I met Phil in the lobby. We waited to see if anyone else would make it. I spotted Tonya and her friend, Mike walking toward us. I was so happy to see her, I gave her a big hug. It was time to go have some fun.

We had a nice drive through Laughlin and Bullhead City to Oatman, which is about 25 miles southeast of Bullhead via SR 95. We arrived around 11:15 and decided to meet back at the Miatas around 12:30. We all went our own ways sight-seeing and doing a little shopping for souvenirs. I spotted Tonya and her friend feeding the wild burros carrots in the street. The wild burros roam the streets, greeting the tourists in hopes of receiving a handout.

A little after 12:30 we all met and decided to hit old Route 66 through Oatman to Kingman. The weather was cool, and little showers were coming off and on. Going through the mountains on old Route 66 was beautiful — the view of the mountains and canyons was fantastic. The road was made for a Miata run, nice curves and twisties. We stopped in Kingman for a few minutes, then headed back to Laughlin via routes 93 and 68.

I climbed to the top of one of the parking buildings where the Triumph Auto Club was displaying their cars for an event. The local TV Station was filming what looked like about 60 Triumphs on display by model year— it was a beautiful display. On my way back to the hotel I ran into some friends who were there to see the Kenny Rogers "Live in Concert" show that night. We decided to go together— a great show. Afterwards we did a little gaming, and I went up to my room around 1:30, and there was a message on my phone from Phil saying that he had to leave for San Diego at 4:30 a.m. to take care of some personal business.

The next morning (Sunday) I met my friends for breakfast at the Flamingo Hilton, where they were staying. Around 10:30 I decided to head for San Diego. On the way back I had fun with all the Triumphs on the road up in the high desert. They let me join their caravan. I would break out and pass about four or five of them then rejoin them (smile).

All in all, the trip turned out great, I didn't know that you could have so much fun with only three Miatas, and I want to thank Phil Daoust and Tonya Zalenski and her friend for making it a great run.

—ART HAMILTON

Scattered Fallout from Steve & Frank

Being devoted Miataphiles, we always look for the interesting stuff in our day-to-day existence. It's not that we're looking for the oddest stuff imaginable relating to Miatas and Mazda; it just seems to jump out at us! Here's our latest morsels, sampled from the SD Union-Tribune, front page of the San Diego/B Section, Monday, October 6: "Mazdaznans ready to leave lofty retreat" [The article begins by explaining that the Mazdaznans are a religious group dating from the turn of the century.]

"...The group believes that through Ahura Mazda — an ancient Persian phrase for 'one supreme God' — human beings will find paradise on earth by achieving a perfect harmonic balance of the body, mind and emotions through vegetarianism and meditation.

"The group's core belief is that the body should be cared for because it is the temple of the living God,' Calderon (the Mazdaznan elector, or high priest) said. 'There is the trinity of the physical, mental and emotional. If we balance those three elements, it will reflect the spirit on us.'

"Lest anyone try to brand the Mazdaznans a New Age cult, Calderon notes the group's beliefs were developed about a century ago by an English-trained medical doctor who was born in what is now Iran.

"The Mazdaznan movement was created by Otoman Zar-Adusht Ha'nish who borrowed the ancient Zoroastrian teachings of Zarathustra. Mazdaznan tradition says that God revealed the path to paradise to Ainyahita, a woman prophet, more than 9,000 years ago on a plateau in the Gobi desert.

"...Although the Mazdaznans are little known, the term Mazda was familiar to many Americans well before the Japanese car of that name came to these shores."

"General Electric began using the word in 1910 when it perfected mass produced filament light bulbs, according to Jerry Korb, a Vermont historian of the light bulb. 'General Electric used it (Mazda) as a trade name from 1910 to 1945,' Korb said. General Electric searched for a name that represented light and power and discovered the name Mazda in Zoroastrianism. The word Mazda was prominently displayed in General Electric's advertisements and found on the company's calendars illustrated by popular American artist Maxfield Parrish.

"...In the roots of Mazdaznan, we try to respect the individual,' said Calderon, 44, who does not wear clerical garb. He was named the group's leader in 1988 by his predecessor, who had occupied the top post for 37 years.

"We try not to impose our opinion or point of view, but try to inspire people to form their own opinions,' he said. 'If that occurs, then society will perform well.'"

* We couldn't make up stuff this good! We also think that sounds like the majority of Miata owners!

Torrey Pines Concours d'Elegance — One Miata Driver's Highly Biased View

Sunday, October 19th brought Chamber of Commerce weather to the 17th Annual San Diego Concours d'Elegance, held for the first time at Torrey Pines after outgrowing the cramped confines of Seaport Village's Embarcadero Park.

The event was heavily advertised and I had high expectations but was absolutely stunned by the sheer number of world class cars that were arrayed on the fairways of Torrey's North Course as I wheeled my '95 red Miata into the judges' parking area. The featured marque was Mercedes-Benz, and examples ranged from horseless devices over a hundred years old, through the magnificent super-charged classics of the 20s and 30's, to the fabulous gullwings of the mid 50s.

Assigned to judge a class of five Duesenbergs, my team had the unenviable task of picking the most perfect of nearly perfect cars. After toiling mightily in the hot sun, we finished and with conscience clear and camera in hand, began to walk the field joined by the usual suspects—SDMC members "VOODOO BOB" and VICKY KRUEGER, "JT" BOB HOLLAND, Tom and STEF GOULD,

ANTHONY "NEVADABOB" WILDE, my wife MAGGI, Chris Burns and friend Jason. This show had something for every taste, JT and Anthony went straight for the Ferraris while Ferrari expert "Voodoo Bob" developed a previously unknown passion for chain driven Mercedes (must be the German ancestry). Tom's uncle, Charles McMahon, provided some fascinating history on a pre-1900 St. Louis that he was showing in the Antiques class. There was a very nice grouping of Woodies (no relation), and those of us who had been to the Monterey Historic Races gave the Competition Class a good looking over. I naturally gravitated to the European Classics and fell under the spell of an automobile with the most beautifully sensuous lines ever conceived, a lovely black Pourtout bodied Talbot-Lago. These cars have topped my

'lust' list since I first saw one in Wisconsin nearly forty years ago. The Talbot was awarded the Chairman's Choice trophy and, in conversation with the owner, I learned that it was the very car that captivated me so many years ago. Not so successful was the Journalists' Choice, a 1948 Cadillac by Saoutchik in lavender and purple with faux canework on the doors, that I imagine was originally driven by a bordello owner. The spectators, in contrast, showed excellent taste in picking the People's Choice which went to an exquisite Rolls-Royce Silver Ghost. It is rare for a racing car to win the top award at a Concours d'Elegance, but the Mercedes-Benz W154 Grand Prix car that took Best of Show was clearly a superstar and a popular choice.

This year's show definitely put the San Diego Concours d'Elegance into the big league. Torrey Pines provides the spectacular setting that these cars deserve and is easily the finest event of its type in Southern California. While I first went to Pebble Beach in 1965 and have attended more major events than I can remember, this year's San Diego Concours had more truly great cars than I've ever seen in one place. All of us who were there will be back next year and hope to have more of you join us.

—WOODY WOODHOUSE

Torrey Pines Concours d'Elegance: Chris Burns, Anthony "NevadaBob" Wilde, Stef Gould, Woody Woodhouse, "JT" Bob Holland, "Voodoo Bob" Krueger and Tom Gould were some of the Miata owners who enjoyed being surrounded by exceptional machines like this Ferrari.

1999 Miata!

The REAL MCCOY!

The photos on this page are not "spy" photos. This is the genuine article, courtesy of Mazda Information Bureau and the auto.com web page.

The photos on this page are of a black 1999 Miata and the photos on page 9 are of a copper-colored 1999 Miata (right hand drive). So...while the body curves might look slightly different between the various photos, that is just an illusion caused by the light reflecting off different colored cars.

Member Profile

NEAL HOWLAND

My name is Neal Howland and I have owned my Miata for 3 months. Sounds like an introduction at one of those Anonymous programs, doesn't it? I guess that is kind of appropriate, because Miatas can get pretty addictive. Although I'm not sure whether Miata club meetings are helping me cope or just making me want to spend more money!

My Miata, a '97 Red PEP, is the first new car I have ever purchased. A big part of my decision was the amazing community based around the Miata. I visited Miata.net and the SDMC Web site several times before deciding to purchase my car. When I test drove the Miata I loved how fun it was to drive. And what better place to own a convertible than San Diego.

I work for Qualcomm in the ASIC Products Division. Our division designs and sells custom integrated circuits for CDMA cellular phones. My job as an Applications Engineer is to help companies design cellular phones using our ASICs.

I have been working at Qualcomm for three years, since graduating from college. I earned my Masters and Bachelors degrees in electrical engineering from Kansas State University. I specialized in microprocessor systems and digital electronics design.

I'm looking forward to all the fun I am going to have with my Miata and with the San Diego Miata Club.

Left: an Abarth that we saw at the Monterey Historics in 1994 ready for the Hill Climb event.

Pin Tradin'

I'll probably regret admitting this, but not only do I enjoy driving and tinkering with my Miata, I also enjoy collecting just about any kind of Miata-related stuff. You know....photos, posters, puzzles, artwork, books, magazine articles, manuals, models and even logo pins from other Miata Club Chapters!

There are 24 different Miata Club Chapters (including San Diego) that have club logo pins available. Two other chapters are working on their pins and should have them available soon. Now, I guess I could have just contacted an officer in each of the clubs and purchased a pin, but that wouldn't be any fun. It's more fun to TRADE with members from the other chapters! There are dozens of anxious members out there that are ready to swap. Heck, just after our own pins became available I posted a single message to the Miata.net mail list asking for interested pin traders and I quickly added 4 new chapter pins to my collection! (And each of them are now happy owners of a San Diego Chapter pin.) Currently, I have pins from 11 other chapters... BAMA, BUCKEYE, CAMS, DELVAL, EVERGLADES, LONE STAR, NIAGARA, PEACHTREE, PUGET SOUND, QUEENSLAND, and SOCALM. Hopefully, I will soon have all 24+ in my collection.

Some pin collectors attach their pins to a favorite hat. Others pin them inside their Miata to a dash cover or to the carpeting between the seats. Well, I'd worry about losing the hat or having some sticky fingered individual "borrow" them from the car so I went with an idea that members VBob and Vicky Krueger have been using....a pin board. I picked up an inexpensive framed corkboard and mounted it on the wall in my den/computer/Miata memorabilia room. It works GREAT to hold the pins neatly in place with lots of room for expansion!

Perhaps some of you would be interested in trading pins with other chapters? If so, please find below a listing of all chapters that currently have pins available. I found this listing at the

Miata.net web site <<http://miata.net>> which also has links to all of the chapters that have their own web pages. For those chapters without web pages you can try posting a message to the Miata.net E-mail list asking for members interested in trades. Those of you without computers might wish to refer to the chapter contact info included with each issue of Miata Magazine.

Chapters With Logo Pins:

Buckeye Miata Club
Northcoast Miata Club
Houston Miata Club
Everglades Miata Club
Club Miata - de la Monteregie
Trillium Miata Club
Southern California Miata Assoc.
Delaware Valley Miata Club
Space Coast Miata Club
Indy Miata Club
Central Alabama Miata Society

West Penn Chapter
Puget Sound Chapter
Niagara Chapter
MX-5 Club of Queensland
San Diego Miata Club
Badgerland Chapter (soon)
Old Pueblo Miata Club (soon)

Give it a try! I think you will find pin trading to be fun! (Of course, you will need some San Diego Chapter pins to use for tradin'. For that, please see me at any event. Pins are $3 each.)

1999 Miata

On October 23 the whole world will know exactly what the new 1999 Miata looks like. Those of you with internet access already know as several sites (including Mazda Japan's own site) jumped the gun by one week and posted the photos on October 16. As it turns out, the "spy" photos we ran last month were right on the money.

Here are a few shots from the Mazda Japan web site. On page 7 you will find several pictures from the auto.com web site as well as a large picture direct from Mazda USA.

Enjoy!

Until next month — keep that top down!
